

Group Names:
Name of Therapy:
Description of the therapy, include typical populations
Perform a Google search: which is more prevalent? (highlight one)
.com sites	.org sites
Perform a Google Scholar search: look at the first 5 articles that pop up
Describe the general theme to the articles:	Briefly look at the study design: what's good?
Who funded the research?	Briefly look at the study design: what's bad?

Back to Google:
Does the therapy have its own website? Describe the general feel – is it welcoming, does it state positive claims as soon as you open the site? Do they have research posted? What are our clients going to think when they see the site?	Does the therapy claim to cure the disease/disorder? What SPECIFICALLY does it say the therapy will do?
What is the cost to the client for the therapy?	Does the provider of the therapy need to be certified?
Are there potential harmful side effects? Describe them:
Are there blogs or other sites for opinions? What are people saying that have done the therapy?	Can the client receive any other services while engaging in this therapy? What are the “rules”?

Application to OT practice
Which theory/FOR does this therapy potentially align with? Provide a rationale.	Is the therapy within our scope of practice? Can you justify it within the OTPF? Why or why not?
Can you find this therapy within the OT literature? Does AOTA have any information available on the therapy?	Thinking about the population this therapy is typically used for, what would be your typical approach to this population? Describe how you can support your own OT approach with evidence:
Does it improve occupational performance? Why or why not?	Take a second to reflect on whether or not you intend to incorporate this therapy into your practice and what that looks like:
Take Home Messages
For your fellow therapists:	For your clients:
For a physician:	Your 2 sentence statement for interdisciplinary rounds: